THIS WEEK... with Ray

Presidential Bill

The much-request Presidential Bill has arrived. Following, arguably, the most historically significant election ever, it only takes turning on the news to see that people all across the globe are fixated on the new leader of the free world. These go super quick in crowds when you say, "Historic million dollar keepsakes!" or "Don't miss out on your chunk of the stimulus package!"

And because we felt it was vital to say something about his stand on the value of unborn babies, "Abortion Stops a Human Heart" is discretely written next to the seal on the left front.

The Billboard Saga

Dan Barker is the president of Freedom From Religion in Wisconsin. He's the one who has been putting up billboards around the country, mocking Christianity. By coincidence, he was on the 105 freeway on the way to Los Angeles airport recently, when he saw our billboard. Consequently, he sent me an email:

"Ray, I saw your billboard on the 105 Freeway yesterday. I was driving back to the airport after talking with a number of atheist campus groups, which are, as you note, growing quite fast around the country. It is incredible that you think a message like that would impress an atheist! . . . We atheists know what we are talking about, and you simply do not. All you have is the Bible, which has been repeatedly shown to be unreliable, untrue, unscientific, unhistorical, immoral, and uninspiring. Why do you persist in this false nonsense? Do you have no regard for honesty and truth? . . . For the record, we atheists are gaining much ground in this country. Thank you for helping to point that out, and for appearing in your desperation to be truly afraid of the progress we freethinkers are making. Stop lying and start thinking. Dan Barker."

Here's another reaction to the billboards:

"I have been encouraging fellow atheists to consider a tithe of sorts to put up billboards, put signs on the sides of buses, etc., to counter the untold millions of dollars that religious organizations collect tax free to spend on brainwashing. Thanks for the sign, I think that it will do all of my work for for me. John."

I wrote back to him: "John, I was so encouraged when I heard that Richard Dawkins was reminding people about God (throughout Britain and now here in the United States). It's so easy to get caught up in the business of every day, and forget that He gave us life. Best wishes to you and your family. Ray Comfort." His reply was interesting. He said, "(Censored), you're good!"

One Star... or Five Stars?

When You Can Lead an Atheist to Evidence But You Can't Make Him Think toppled Richard Dawkin's book from the number one spot in the atheist section on Amazon.com, many people began giving it reviews. See if you can figure which reviewers are atheists and which are Christians:

- "So good the atheists can't wait to bash it."
- "Nonsense."
- "Comfort is a charlatan."
- "Dreadful piece of drivel."
- "Great logical thinking."
- "Terrible."
- "A MUST READ!!!"
- "Utter Tripe [trash] ."
- "You can tell how good this book is by how many atheists are claiming to have read it and then give it a one star review."

If you like the book, maybe you could give it a review. The first chapter is available on Amazon.com by following the link you will see on the picture of the book.

Richard Dawkins will Debate Me ...for $100,000

I offered Richard Dawkins $10,000 to debate me, and he snubbed the offer, saying that it is less than he usually is offered, and, "It is not, therefore, a worthwhile inducement for me to travel all the way across the Atlantic to debate with an ignorant fool."

Richard Dawkins in Ben Stein's documentary "Expelled"

He then countered by saying that if I would donate $100,000 to the "Richard Dawkins Foundation for Reason and Science" he would do it. He wrote:

"My interest is in getting the Banana Man to PART with $100,000 of his money so that that money will NOT be available for buying animatronic dinosaurs with saddles, or other similar nonsense."

FREE Code Blue Rally

Code Blue Rally is a free event run by our friends at World View Weekend. They are called "Code Blue" because the church in America is in critical condition. From age 9 to 109, Worldview Weekend is committed to a four prong strategy for its Code Blue Campaign:

1. Teach Christians to contend for the faith through apologetics training.
2. Teach Christian to think like Biblically minded Christians through worldview training.
3. Teach Christians to evangelize like Jesus did using the Moral Law.
4. Challenge Christians to make sure they are true converts by examining their lives in light of the Biblical hallmarks of a Christian.

SPURGEON MOMENT with Kirk

"O you legalists who are looking to yourselves for some arguments with which to prevail with God! O you who look to your sacraments, to your outward forms, to your pious deeds and your almsgivings for something that will move the heart of God--know this, that these things are no lever that can ever move Him to love! Nothing but your sin and misery can ever stir His mercy! And you look to the wrong place when you look to your merits to find a plea why He should show pity upon you!"

~ Charles Spurgeon

When I understand, by the grace of God, that nothing but the blood of Jesus can wash away my sin- not my prayers, nor my good works, no, not even my repentance and faith-it sends me into worship. I've learned God moves in mercy toward us not because of anything we have done, but only because He is full of compassion toward helpless sinners who have nothing acceptable to offer to save themselves. Since God resists the proud and gives grace to the humble, a sinner's only hope for happiness in this life and the next, is to abandon all confidence in his own merits and accomplishments, and trust entirely in the power and kindness of His Savior, Jesus Christ.

Sixty Minutes & Evangelism Encouragement

The below email was a great source of encouragement to me, and I hope it will also encourage those of you who are involved in the thankless task of evangelism, particularly open air preaching:

"I met Ray in Christchurch, New Zealand, when he was preaching in Cathedral Square. He did battle with the Official Christchurch Wizard, The Bible Lady, a guy dressed up as Sherlock Holmes, a short Chinese guy in a mini kilt and an elderly man in a raincoat who had a crowd of seagulls sitting on him. It was very colourful and quite a unique time. I was probably only 18 at that stage and my journey with God was many years away in the future. Ray was talking one day about salvation and I laughed when others laughed. Yet something Ray said then caused me to consider his words. Well nearly thirty years later (last year) I took heed of those words on the floor of an auditorium in Bulawayo, Zimbabwe (I was born again). I was there helping on an aid trip, and I'm heading back this year. Ray's attitude and courage stayed with me all these years and to see him on 60 Minutes last night answered another question. Where did he go? ~ B. Samson, Auckland, New Zealand."

Here's the portion of New Zealand's 60 Minutes that he was referring to. It's encouraging to have secular TV say something positive about our ministry.

SPURGEON MOMENT with Kirk

"Is there a Christian in this place who comes up to the standard of Zacchaeus after he was converted? I do not wish to be censorious, but I doubt if there is one. Is there anybody here who gives away half his income to the poor? I think that was going a long way in Grace in the matter of almsgiving. And then remember that he was but a babe in Grace when he did that;-so what he did when he grew older, I do not know."

~ Charles Spurgeon

Wow! How convicting is that to those of us who are not giving as freely as we know we should? Why do we hesitate to give away more of the riches we have to help those less fortunate than ourselves? Is it because we find it hard to trust our Father in Heaven to really provide for us if we do? Or is it because we fear that we won't be happy if we don't consume, spend, and indulge ourselves with every form of pleasure we can buy? Jesus said, "If you want to be perfect, go, sell your possessions and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come, follow me." It seems that following Jesus must be accompanied by a humble, generous spirit. How ironic that those who hoard their wealth will die and lose it all, but those who give it away in this life for the sake of following Jesus, will gain it back a hundredfold in the next.

A Sobering Thought on Porn

Every red-blooded Christian male has a battle with lust. He is incessantly bombarded from every side with explicit imagery. But when a man surrenders to the sin, we often hear a phrase like "He has an addiction to pornography." However, his addiction isn't to pornography. It's to "adultery." That's what we do every time we look with lust (see Matthew 5:27-28), and the root cause of someone who keeps going back to adultery is "idolatry." There is a concept of God in his mind that doesn't produce the fear of the Lord. So, make sure you flee from idolatry, and you will fortify yourself against sexual infidelity. Make the God who revealed Himself in Scripture your "accountability Partner." Do that, and you won't have an addiction to adultery.

SPURGEON MOMENT with Kirk

"Ah, my Brothers and Sisters, Christ's eyes look in the opposite direction to ours. We usually look for some goodness on the part of men before we help them, but He looks to their sin, degradation and need. He is kind to the unthankful and the evil. He justifies those who are not, in themselves, just -- while we were dead in trespasses and sins, 'in due time Christ died for the ungodly.' Grace, pure Grace, abounds in Him and is blessedly manifested in His mission of saving the lost."

~ Charles Spurgeon

I find it profoundly interesting that Jesus' mission to rescue sinners was not motivated by something "worthy" or "valuable" in us, but rather his mercy is magnified by the fact that He saved us even while we had nothing to offer Him but our sin and shame. To think that Jesus didn't come to rescue friends, but to love his enemies, serve them unto death, adopt them as His children, and allow them to rein with Him forever... God's grace is amazing!

Giants in the Land?

These are tough times, but we are going to stand strong and keep our focused vision. We want you to know that we exist for your benefit, and this has been made possible through God's grace and the continued financial and prayer support He provides through so many saints. Thank you for supporting us.

There is a lot of negative talk about the future of our nation, and the world, but in these very troubling times we have found people are rethinking their priorities. Now, more than ever, this is the time for all of us to share the true Gospel.

So expect new exciting tracts to help you to do that. Expect more equipping DVD's, and pray for us as we finish up the Living Waters University with its categorized free witnessing clips.

One other thing. Don't let negative talk fool you into thinking that there are giants in the land. They are grasshoppers. If you are trusting in the Savior, God is with you and that's all that matters. He is your sufficiency and He promises to supply all your needs. We want to be a part of that, so we are going to continue to send out free tracts to those that need them, and we are at present looking at ways to have an outreach to the homeless. Thank you again for your prayers and for being part of this ministry.

SPURGEON MOMENT with Kirk

"We have not completely conquered the spirit of the world until we can truthfully say that the commandments of God, so far from being grievous to us, are acceptable simply because they come from Him."

~ Charles Spurgeon

It's a great comfort to me and proof positive of the regenerating power of Holy Spirit that while some people find the commands of God in Scripture to be offensive, unreasonable, and oppressive; Christians discover them to be rich, robust, invigorating, and true. Only when the gospel invades and subdues our hearts, do we see God and His decrees as they really are. This is what allows the Christian to say, "I delight in the Law of God according to the inward man," and "I esteem Your words more than my necessary food." For the Christian, there is also the gift of childlike trust that allows us to embrace God's commands even when we don't yet see the inherent value in them. We embrace God's commands, even the difficult ones, simply because we trust God. He is faithful and we have chosen to live by faith and not by sight. We reject the flesh and live by the Spirit.

How do you talk with someone who is a professing Christian?

LIVING WATERS WEEKLY UPDATE

THIS WEEK...

with Ray

Back from New Zealand

How can you demonstrate that you love someone? You could buy them an expensive ring. I'm sure that would help, because it's tangible evidence of some sort of a sacrifice. The ring is more than mere words. Still, it comes back to belief. If the person you love chooses not to believe that you love them, there's nothing you can do about it.

I was in New Zealand recently at a university where local Christians had organized a debate between myself and an atheist. Around 150 people showed up, and just before it started, a tall outspoken man named Ryan enthusiastically approached me and said something like, "I'm honored to meet you. I have watched your videos on the Internet, read your material, and here I am actually getting to meet you. I am really excited about this debate." As he was walking back to his seat I called out, "Which side are you on?" and he replied, "I'm against everything you stand for."

During the question-time Ryan asked some good questions and I gave my best answers. The next day he showed up at another meeting at which I was speaking, then he listened to me again for another hour or so at a church service.

Afterwards, we chatted, I signed a copy of You can Lead an Atheist to Evidence But You Can't Make Him Think, we had our photo taken, and he even helped on the our book table. I really cared about Ryan and was pleased to hear him say at the end of the evening, "Man, why are you so likeable!!!" The fact that he could feel my love and concern for him was more powerful than any argument I could give him for the existence of God.

Some atheists read everything I write as if I hated them, but even my warning about a place called "Hell," springs from love. They accuse me of making money from the sale of my books and the Gospel, but I have preached open air more than 5,000 times and never been paid. I do that because I love people and care where they spend eternity. If I didn't care, I wouldn't bother with preaching or writing Christian books. I had a very successful business before I became a Christian and could have made a good living, but I chose to spend my life pleading with people to consider where they will spend eternity. Doing that has been a small sacrifice, but it is a tangible expression of my love for this dying world. Yet if they refuse to believe that, I can't do anything about it.

Most of this world knows that Jesus gave His life on the cross as a sacrifice, but they don't understand why. It was a legal transaction. We have violated God's Law through lying, stealing, blasphemy, lust, adultery, hatred, fornication, selfishness, etc. That Law shows that we are guilty criminals standing before the Judge of the Universe. We are heading for God's prison--a terrible place called "Hell." The gospel tells us that Jesus paid our fine through His sacrifice on the cross. That means because of the suffering death and resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth, God can legally dismiss our case. He can commute our death sentence and let us live upon our repentance and faith in Jesus, because our "fine" was paid 2,000 years ago. This is how the Bible puts it: "But God shows and clearly proves His [own] love for us by the fact that while we were still sinners, Christ (the Messiah, the Anointed One) died for us" (Romans 5:8, Amplified Bible).

There's the evidence of His love. It's up to you and me to believe it.

SPURGEON MOMENT with Kirk

"Beloved, I trust that each one of you who believes in Jesus, knows what that rest of heart is which enables you to say, 'My God, my Father, You can do nothing to me but what Infinite Love dictates, for I know that You love me even as You love Your first-born and only-begotten Son.'"

~ Charles Spurgeon

Some like to ask the question, "Is there anything God can NOT do?" The answer is "Yes." God cannot do anything that violates His perfect character. Since God is love, He does nothing that compromises His love. Since He is holy and just, he always upholds those attributes in every one of His actions. Even when God sends trials, for the child of God, they are designed to develop our faith, stretch our character, and increase our love for Him and our fellow man. If God has granted you faith in Jesus, then He has adopted you into His family and you are His precious child. Enjoy the comfort of that and think of the blessings you have as a co-heir with Christ.
